

In this work, we consider the problem of learning a hierarchical generative model of an object from a set of images which show examples of the object in the pre