

One of the core challenges in Visual Dialogue problems is asking the question that will provide the most useful information towards achieving the required objec