

We consider the problem of video summarization. Given an input raw video, the goal is to select a small subset of key frames from the input video to create a sh