

One of the key limitations of traditional machine learning methods is their requirement for training data that exemplifies all the information to be learned. This is a