

A profound idea in learning invariant features for transfer learning is to align statistical properties of the domains. In practice, this is achieved by minimizing the c