

We introduce the first visual privacy dataset originating from people who are blind in order to better understand their privacy disclosures and to encourage the d