

The goal of early action prediction is to recognize actions from partially observed videos with incomplete action executions, which is quite different from action re