

In this paper, we present a new perspective towards image-based shape generation. Most existing deep learning based shape reconstruction methods employ a