

In this work we address task interference in universal networks by considering that a network is trained on multiple tasks, but performs one task at a time, an ap