

In this work, we propose a novel framework for unsupervised learning for event cameras that learns motion information from only the event stream. In particular,