

We present a new clustering method in the form of a single clustering equation that is able to directly discover groupings in the data. The main proposition is that