

Unsupervised image-to-image translation aims at learning a mapping between two visual domains. However, learning a translation across large geometry variat