

We introduce a data-driven model for interactively synthesizing in-the-wild images from semantic label input masks. Our approach is dramatically different from