

Multi-class and multi-scale object detection for autonomous driving is challenging because of the high variation in object scales and the cluttered background in