

Semantic segmentation is one of the most fundamental problems in computer vision and pixel-level labelling in this context is particularly expensive. Hence, the