

Weakly supervised object detection (WSOD) is a challenging task when provided with image category supervision but required to simultaneously learn object lo