

Learning on data represented with multiple views (e.g., multiple types of descriptors or modalities) is a rapidly growing direction in machine learning and comput