

We propose a new geometric regularization principle for reconstructing vector fields based on prior knowledge about their divergence. As one important example