

Existing dichromatic color constancy approach commonly requires a number of spatial pixels which have high specularity. In this paper, we propose a novel app