

Binary neural networks (BNN) have been studied extensively since they run dramatically faster at lower memory and power consumption than floating-point netw