

Systems which incrementally create 3D semantic maps from image sequences must store and update representations of both geometry and semantic entities. h