

We present a deep learning method for the interactive video object segmentation. Our method is built upon two core operations, interaction and propagation, and