

When humans have to solve everyday tasks, they simply pick the objects that are most suitable. While the question which object should one use for a specific ta