

In this paper, we propose a semi-supervised approach for representative selection, which finds a small set of representatives that can well summarize a large d