

The deep image prior was recently introduced as a prior for natural images. It represents images as the output of a convolutional network with random inputs. For