

Convolutional networks for single-view object reconstruction have shown impressive performance and have become a popular subject of research. All existing t