

Path forecasting is a pivotal step toward understanding dynamic scenes and an emerging topic in the computer vision field. This task is challenging due to the