

Transferring knowledge from a teacher neural network pretrained on the same or a similar task to a student neural network can significantly improve the perform