

We develop hierarchically quantized efficient embedding representations for similarity-based search and show that this representation provides not only the state