

In this paper, we address the separation of reflective and fluorescent components in RGB images taken under narrow-band light sources such as LEDs. First, w