

In this paper, we propose a new measure to gauge the complexity of image classification problems. Given an annotated image dataset, our method computes a