

Deep mutual learning jointly trains multiple essential networks having similar properties to improve semi-supervised classification. However, the commonly used