

Deep learning approaches to 3D shape segmentation are typically formulated as a multi-class labeling problem. These models are trained for a fixed set of labels.