

Researchers have observed that Visual Question Answering (VQA ) models tend to answer questions by learning statistical biases in the data. For example, the