

Large intra-class variation is the result of changes in multiple object characteristics. Images, however, only show the superposition of different variable factors such as