

3D shapes come in varied representations from a set of points to a set of images, each capturing different aspects of the shape. We propose a unified code for 3D