Studies have shown that a dominant class of questions asked by visually impaired users on images of their surroundings involves reading text in the images of their surroundings involves reading text in the images of their surroundings involves reading text in the images of their surroundings involves reading text in the images of their surroundings involves reading text in the images of their surroundings involves reading text in the images of their surroundings involves reading text in the images of their surroundings involves reading text in the images of their surroundings involves reading text in the images of their surroundings involves reading text in the images of their surroundings involves reading text in the images of their surroundings involves reading text in the images of their surroundings involves reading text in the images of their surroundings involves reading text in the images of their surroundings involves reading text in the images of their surroundings involves reading text in the images of the images	nage. But