Much of the recent progress made in image classification research can be credited to training procedure refinements.	such as changes in data augmentations
much of the recent progress made in image classification research can be deduced to training procedure reinfernents.	, such as changes in data augmentations o