Conventional neural architecture search (NAS) approaches are usually based on reinforcement learning or evolutionary strategy, which take more than 1000 GP