This paper addresses the problem of recovering projective camera matrices from collections of fundamental matrices in multiview settings. We make two main c