We propose an alternative generator architecture for generative adversarial networks, borrowing from style transfer literature. The new architecture leads to an a