Face presentation attacks have become an increasingly critical issue in the face recognition community. Many face anti-spoofing methods have been proposed,