We present a new model to determine relative skill from long videos, through learnable temporal attention modules. Skill determination is formulated as a rankin