This paper addresses the problem of multiple models fitting in the general context where the sought structures can be described by a mixture of heterogeneous