Projector photometric compensation aims to modify a projector input image such that it can compensate for disturbance from the appearance of projection surfa