Neural Architecture Search (NAS) is an important yet challenging task in network design due to its high computational consumption. To address this issue, we p