Person re-identification has achieved great progress with deep convolutional neural networks. However, most previous methods focus on learning individual app