Image segmentation is an important task in many medical applications. Methods based on convolutional neural networks attain state-of-the-art accuracy; howev