Low-rank matrix completion (LRMC) is a classical model in both computer vision (CV) and machine learning, and has been successfully applied to various real a