Recent advances in deep learning have significantly improved the performance of video prediction, however, top-performing algorithms start to generate blurry p